Washington Told That Negotiations With Bandits Are In Progress

TWO CHINESE MURDERED
Crime Is Intended To Impress Foreigners With Bandit's Sincerity

By Associated Press
Washington—Minister Schurman reported to the state department Wednesday that no progress was being made in negotiations between the Chinese authorities and the bandit leaders for the release of Americans and other foreigners held captive in Shantung. The minister said there were indications that the negotiations might drag indefinitely.

The dispatch made no reference to reports that certain of the prisoners had been killed, but said reports had reached minister Schurman from Consul Davis at Tsing Tan that the bandits had transported their prisoners further into the mountains to the main bandit headquarters. The Consul said the action had followed a conference among the bandit leaders.

SLAY TWO PRISONERS
Shanghai—With an unconfirmed report received here Wednesday morning from Lincheng that three of the Chinese captives held by the Suichow train bandits had been hurled to their death over a precipice in the Shantung mountains as a warning to the authorities, further word of the negotiations for the release of the foreign captives was awaited anxiously.

The Lincheng report said the Chinese victims were killed instantly. The alleged murders were said to have been intended to impress on the Chinese government and the foreign diplomatic corps that the bandits meant what they said when they announced that all the prisoners would be slain unless the "foreign" demands were complied with. The period of the ultimatum sent out Sunday by the bandit chieftain, granting three days, was believed to have expired either Tuesday night or some time Wednesday.

Leaders of the bandits are said to have met emissaries Tuesday afternoon at Dragon Pass cliff, ten miles north of Tsao Chwang. Counter proposals were discussed and it is believed that the outlaws' final decision was forwarded Wednesday. The demand was made that the foreign diplomats guarantee the bandits against reprisals from Chinese or foreign sources, and also that the diplomats pledge the carrying out of the general terms. The terms do not mention ransom but require the formation of a new force, numbering 8,000 into two brigades, with Sun Mei-Jan one of the bandit leaders, appointed brigade commander. The Chinese government also is ordered to send the bandit stronghold full supplies of ammunition, this to be preceded by the withdrawal of all pursuing troops.

Rail Magnate,
Dies In France

By Associated Press
Montone, France—George J. Gould, the American financier, who has been ill at Cap Martin near here for some time, died at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mr. Gould was stricken with pneumonia at his villa on March 28. For several days his condition remained critical but he then rallied and on April 3, was said to be out of danger. Three weeks later he suffered a relapse and on May 3 took a turn for the worse.

When he came peacefully, Mr. Gould's wife and two children were at his bedside.

George Jay Gould, financier and railroad man, succeeded to the leadership of the famous Gould family upon the death of his father, Jay Gould, December 2, 1892.

In addition to assuming responsibility, as trustee and executor, for the $80,000,000 estate left by his father, he carried on and expanded the great railroad holdings of the latter, and within a few years he became one of America's foremost railroad financiers. The 6,000 miles of road left by Jay Gould grew into more than 20,000 miles under the management of his son, while the many investments in other huge enterprises, including the Western Union Telegraph Co., and were largely managed by the principal heir.

Gould was born in New York City Feb. 6, 1864.

NEW SLATED TO KEEP HARDING IN WASHINGTON

Postmaster General Succeeds Daugherty As Campaign Manager

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923, By Post Pub. Co.
Washington—President Harding is having a somewhat awkward experience handling the pre-convention campaign that confronts him. Attorney General Daugherty, his political mentor, is not a well known name in Ohio for a prolonged term which eventually may mean his resignation. Who shall handle the renominating campaign?

Many people believe a renomination is automatically accomplished, that all the friends of the president have to do is to let the political world know he is a candidate for renomination and the selection is as good as made. But that's far from the truth. A huge machinery has to be set in motion to line up delegates and the work cannot be tackled at the last minute. It has to be done a long time in advance. Who will go out into the various states and see that delegates friendly to Harding are on the primary ballots or that the states where the convention method of selection is used will pick the right men? Some one has to do all that and although John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican National committee, was a Harding choice in the first place, he cannot by virtue of his position on the National committee go out actively on behalf of any candidate.

POSTMASTERS HELPED
President Taft and Roosevelt each had their postmaster generals who got busy at the proper moment and lined up the delegates for the renomination campaign. A postmaster general in the old days was in touch with the postmasters everywhere who usually took care of the interests of the man who appointed them to office. Many of the postmasters today are not political appointees but hold their positions by virtue of nominations. Mr. Harding has modified previous practices in this regard by permitting a postmaster to be selected from the three highest candidates. If a Republican is among the three he can of course be chosen and naturally he would be obligated morally at least to look after the interests of the man who signed his commission.

FIRST TEST THIS YEAR
The first test of how much political support can be expected by a president from the postmasters who have been selected by examination will come this year. But if the postmaster isn't friendly after which he practices in political activity—which is forbidden by executive order but usually evaded in behalf of the man who has the power to enforce the executive order—there are always other federal office holders who can wield political influence, as for instance the local United States attorneys, the judges, the revenue or other representatives of the federal government.

But somebody must visit these federal officeholders and tell them what to do and how to do it so that delegates may go to the Republican national convention pledged and instructed to cast their votes for Harding. It requires, indeed, almost as much organization to run a pre-convention campaign as a contest for final election.

Mr. Harding is in an embarrassing

RUM TRADE PICKS UP ON ATLANTIC

St. John—Despite reports from New York that the United States government is waging vigorous war on rum traffic off the Atlantic coast, the liquor trade is picking up briskly, now that the worst of the spring storms are believed to have passed. Rum schooners, reported to be heading for the Jersey three mile limit, are putting out almost daily.

The schooner's cargo papers mention ports in the West Indies but the water front smiles.

Vessels arrive from southern waters in ballast tie up at a wharf for a few days, and then slip quietly down the harbor. Receiving their cargo of rum they glide silently out to sea without attracting much attention.

Three schooners, exceptionally heavily loaded have cleared this week.

Blaine's Tax Bill Will Face Big Test In Senate Tonight

Hot Springs Recovering From Two Days Of Terror

By Associated Press
Hot Springs—Merchants of this stricken city opened their doors to business again here Wednesday after a night through which crews of men worked in tireless efforts to remove the wreckage and debris left behind by the flood and fire last Monday when torrents from a mountain cloud burst dashed down the slopes to form currents in its principal streets—while flames enveloped the buildings in an entire block and added another threat of death to that of drowning.

Hot Springs, Minn., again thoroughfare and the chief streambed of the swirling flood 36 hours earlier, again was open to traffic, though the working squads were able to clear away but a small part of the debris which the current had strewn.

From this thoroughfare as a base the sanitary forces were working aloft above the flood, men and women braved the stream and waded or swam to safety. Others were snatched from their feet by the speed of the current which whirled them along until rescuers braced in groups grappled with them and dragged them to higher ground.

Ropes hastily stretched by firemen at intervals across the flooded street brought many to safety.

Property loss was still undetermined Wednesday though estimates confidently placed between one and two millions. Along the line of the flooded streets stores were crushed and merchandise was ruined or washed away.

Normal activities of the city had returned or were soon to be resumed. All public utilities, gas, electrical, lighting and street car service which were put out of order by the elements—were again functioning.

Mrs. Kate Christensen, the only person known to have received serious injury in the disaster lay in a local hospital still in a critical condition as the result of a crushed skull which she suffered when she was caught in her car by the Central-ave torrent and swept along for three blocks.

Guests were trapped in the Marquette hotel, the largest structure destroyed by the fire, but escaped when the flames sent them into the street which had been Central-ave.

SALARY AMENDMENT VETOED BY BLAINE

Virtue Its Own Reward In Case Of Public Officials Says Governor

By Associated Press
Madison—A bill providing for submission of a proposed constitutional amendment to the people of the state to increase the salary of the governor, was vetoed Wednesday by Governor Blaine on the ground that two former legislatures had failed to comply with constitutional requirements in attempting the amendment.

At the same time the governor took occasion to express himself on various moves to increase salaries. In speaking of this subject he said that while public officials could be paid reasonable compensation, a state can never expect to compete with private business in meeting salary demands. There are considerations entering into public employment and public service involving advantages that do not obtain with respect to private employment.

"Any honorable public record and the rendition of unselfish public service constitute a compensation devoutly to be sought and such will have a permanency long after material gain has ceased to be. Public officials who think only in terms of salary increases lack the proper mental attitude toward public service."

The governor's present salary is $5,000 annually. A number of state employees receive more than he does.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TENSION RELIEVED BY EXTENSION

London—The government's announcement that Great Britain had decided to extend the time limit of the ultimatum to Russia, pending discussions between Lord Curzon and Leonid Krassin over the controversial points, relieved the parliamentary situation Tuesday night to the extent that the opposition did not demand a adjournment at the close of the debate.

Labor has vigorously opposed a break in the relations between England and the Soviet. Consequently, when Ronald McNeill, under secretary of state for foreign affairs informed the house there would be no break at least immediately, the point of the opposition's chief weapon was blunted.

$10,000 Is Reward For Mount Clew

By Associated Press
Chicago—A reward of $10,000 was offered Wednesday by the trustees of Northwestern university at the request of Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of the institution, for definite information that would clear up the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Leighton Mount, a freshman who disappeared Sept. 21, 1921, after a class rush.

Throughout two inquiries conducted by the staff of Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, and the grand jury since the finding of a skeleton accepted by the authorities at Mounts, three theories have been advanced: murder, voluntary disappearance and suicide.

The investigation apparently has become a tangled network of testimony, witnesses contradicting each other and what seemed to be promising leads failing to result in tangible evidence after a thorough investigation.

Eight hundred students of the university at a chapel meeting called by the student council Wednesday unanimously adopted a resolution of unqualified support of and confidence in President Scott and expressing disapproval of methods of investigation of the disappearance of Mount.

Senate Kills Amendment To Give Cities Larger Share Of Revenue

DISCUSS TWO OTHER BILLS
Dahl And Severson Make Changes In Their Revenue Measures

By Associated Press
Madison—The senate recessed until Wednesday night after adopting two amendments to Governor Blaine's general income tax bill, and killing a third offered by the socialist members. This action was taken before a line-up revealing the strength of the proposal was made.

With only six dissenting votes the senate passed the revenue bill, which the governor's bill providing that the tax commission should be cut from three members to one. Governor Blaine made a special request in his message to the legislature, that the membership of this body be cut.

An amendment offered by Senator Henry Huber correcting clerical errors was adopted without dissent.

CUT CITY SHARE
The principal feature centered on the first socialist amendment which would appropriate 70 percent of the returns from the bill to cities, leaving 30 percent for counties and 10 percent to the state. On a vote of 16 to 15 this proposed change was killed. City members supported its adoption on the grounds that it would return to localities a larger share of the revenue.

The administration leaders played for time throughout the morning, making several motions to recess or lay over consideration of the tax bill all of which were defeated until general agreement was reached to adjourn until tonight.

Senator Henry Huber explained the tax bill at length to the senate, going into detail on all rates. Senator Herman Ellgren asked him a question concerning the specific application of the tax, which Senator Huber said he was unprepared to answer. He declared that he was not an expert on tax matters and was merely explaining the bill.

Roll call on the adoption of the amendment to return a larger share of the tax to cities follows:

For adoption: Bonney, Burke, Czerwinski, Gettelman, Mirsch, Kemp, Kueckel, Lange, Moran, Morris, Polakowski, Quick, Ridgway, Skogmo, Thayer.

Against adoption: Ellgren, Cashman, Casperson, Clark, Garey, Heck, Huber, Johnson, Roethe, Schumann, Severson, Smith, Staudenmayer, Teasdale, Werden, White.

WHITE GOVERNMENT BILL PENDING IN SENATE

White Government Bill was pending in the senate, recommended for indefinite postponement Senator H. J. Severson and speaker John T. Dahl went before the joint committee on finance Tuesday to urge their two bills once again. These measures have been held in committee since early in March when Governor Blaine asked that all revenue legislation be held up to make way for the proposal he was preparing.

Both Senator Severson and the speaker announced material reductions in rates from their original proposals. Senator Severson in his income surtax bill, cut the corporation rate from 4 per cent to 1 per cent, Speaker Dahl cut his corporation rate from 6 per cent to 4 per cent and his rate on individual incomes from a maximum of 25 per cent to a maximum of 10 per cent.

Senator Severson in urging his bill pointed out that Governor Blaine during the campaign of 1920 had endorsed the policy of income surtaxes as a permanent state policy. The Senate has passed the first measure of 1919 had accepted two surtax bills, and the special session of 1920 a third, although Governor Philipp vetoed that measure. He emphasized the simple working features of a surtax.

Speaker Dahl told the committee that his bill had been entirely revised and would be available if ever the members wanted to revive it. He explained how cities under his proposal would receive a larger return than at present, and obtain a further benefit from repeal of mill taxes for state purposes.

Opponents of the measures centered their objections on the claim that the bills were hastily drawn and were unduly burdensome to industry.

Washington—The federal trade commission announced Wednesday that it had dismissed without prejudice its complaint against the Helvelva Milk Condensing Co., Highland, Ill., and some 45 other condensed milk manufacturers as intervening respondents. The complaint alleged that the practice of these companies in guaranteeing against price declines was an unfair method of competition.

Start Drive For Money To Build Grandstand In Seymour's Fair Grounds

Huge Stand, With Seating Capacity Of 3,000 And Costing $12,000 Will Be Started Within Next Few Weeks

A big booster drive in Outagamie and Brown counties for funds to finance the building of a new grandstand will be launched by the directors of the Seymour fair association immediately after a soliciting organization is effected on Wednesday night at a meeting in Seymour. Plans are adopted and drive committees with members in each section of territory to be worked will be appointed.

In organization, thoroughness, and efficiency, this drive when it gets underway, will resemble the campaign for funds to support semi-public and charitable institutions that have been made in Appleton during the past few years in Appleton during the past few years.

When the present grandstand in the Seymour fair grounds, which has a seating capacity of 1,200 was built the public thought the fair authorities were over-optimistic and never could fill it. But owing to a growing list of premiums, the addition of department after department and the presentation of stronger attractions and better entertainments year after year, the growth of attendance at the Seymour fair has been phenomenal. As a result the seating capacity of the present grandstand has become entirely inadequate to accommodate the crowds demanding admission.

The Seymour fair is a progressive institution. Its years are marked by vigorous growth and development. This year, it has added to its former attractions community displays of farm products with premiums amounting to $350, under the direction of the county agent Robert A. Amundson, and it has increased its premium list to $15,000. A new cow barn and a new poultry house, each 40 by 50 feet will be erected this year besides the grandstand. The area of the grounds have recently been increased by the addition of four acres adjoining on the south. The fair is to run three days and evenings.

The plans for the new grandstand have been drafted and accepted and call for a structure 55 by 220 feet, with 400 box seats and a seating capacity of 3,000. Space under the stand will be utilized as a display room for automobiles. The seating is so arranged the people passing on the grandstand and race track do not obstruct the view of those seated. The stand is to cost $12,000.

The plans have been submitted to the State Industrial commission for approval. As soon as the contracts are turned, the construction will begin. A novel method has been adopted to raise the funds needed for the building. Seats in the grand stand for three days and three nights during the fair will be sold by the building fund solicitors to the public for $5.

ZONING BOARD TO MEET EACH MONTH

Appeals Will Be Heard From Rulings On Zoning And Building Rules

The first meeting of the newly appointed board of appeals on building and city zoning took place Tuesday evening in the city hall. Organization was effected for the year.

Attorney A. H. Krugmeier, who had already been appointed as chairman of the board by Mayor Reuter, presided over the meeting. Edward O'Keefe was elected vice chairman and Conrad Verbrick was elected secretary. The other members of the board are Charles Grunke and Edward Wettengel.

It was decided to hold monthly meetings, on the first Tuesday evening of the month. The place of meetings is in the city hall. The board has been authorized by the zoning ordinance to act upon appeals from the ruling of the city engineer concerning the enforcement of certain provisions of the ordinance. The board may in specific instances after public notice and hearings permit a variation of the application of the building use, height and area regulations in harmony with their general purpose.

TROOP 8 PREPARING FOR PART IN VALLEY JAMBOREE

Members of troop 8, boy scouts of the Congregational church, district plans for the Fox river valley jamboree at Albia, Ark. at their meeting at the Congregational church Monday evening. Friday afternoon ten members in charge of the Rev. C. W. Cross hiked nearly to Kimberly, where they spent the night. They took their camping equipment with them including pup tents, and returned home Saturday afternoon. The entire group passed tests on fire building, cooking and use of knife and axe.

SHERMAN REELECTED TO INSURANCE DIRECTORATE

John J. Sherman, president of the Citizens National bank of Appleton, was reelected a member of the board of directors of the Wisconsin National Life Insurance company of Oshkosh at the annual meeting of stockholders in Oshkosh last week. The term of office is for three years. Stockholders were present from various parts of Wisconsin and Michigan. Financial reports showed a considerable growth in the year 1922 as well as in the first four months of the present year.

BUILDING PERMITS

Tuesday's building permits issued from the office of the city engineer include that for erection of an addition to the chapel at the entrance of the Riverside cemetery. It is 34 by 23 feet in dimension and will be constructed of stone, like the rest of the building. Five garages are also authorized. The total amount of work authorized to date is $51,869. Recent permits granted are:

George P. Miller, Oklahoma-ave. house.

Frank Weinkauf, 460 Pacific-st, garage.

Mrs. E. Breitenfeldt, 781 North Division-st, garage.

Fred Wichman, 1101 Oklahoma-ave, garage.

Charles Schroeder, 565 Randall-st, garage.

Mrs. J. Wegner, 368 Vine-st, garage.

Herman Cumber, 1178 Eighth-st, foundation.

ARRANGE INVESTMENT IN JUNIOR H. S. BONDS

The semi-monthly meeting of Appleton water commission was scheduled to take place in the city hall on Wednesday afternoon. Aside from routine business, the commissioners will consider in which portion of the junior high school bonds it is wise to invest the department's depreciation reserve fund of approximately $60,000.

U. S. REVENUE SQUAD HERE ON INCOME WORK

I SPIED TODAY

BETTER THAN KNICKERS
Now that knickers are accepted by the "best families" one hobbled haired little girl has decided to go them one better. She appeared on Pacific-st about 6:30 Sunday evening in straight short trousers. Some small boys playing in a sand pile, saw her and started after her, yelling and hooting.

BUSINESS RUINED

A junk dealer left his horses untended by the roadside at the corner of College-ave and Locust-st at 10:30 Monday morning and the horses ruined his business for the day. After grazing on the curbing for awhile the horses pulled the wagon right over a small tree and broke it off. When their owner saw what they had done, he was in a big hurry to get away, but the owner of the house came out and effected some sort of settlement for the damage.

DRAW A CROWD

A crowd of people gathered in front of the Western Union office at 7 o'clock Sunday evening to look at an automobile which bore the Wisconsin license No. 1. Many of the people had never seen the first license in the series before.

TOOK UP THE GAUNTLET

I was addressing a package in the postoffice Monday afternoon when a woman came along, picked up my glove and started to walk away. I said: "I beg your pardon, but you have my glove," and she replied: "No, this is my glove." It looked for a minute as though the argument would wax warm when she discovered that her little girl was holding her glove.

SKIPPER CONRAD
There came into the harbor of New York last week, aboard the great Tuscania, a little elderly man with a short white beard, who stood with legs wide apart, sea fashion, gazing for the first time upon America. Captains of ocean liners are not given to inviting retired sailors into all the privileges of their ship's many decks, but this man had been persona grata from stem to stern of the Tuscania, with the master by his side. By Captain Bone himself, he had been shown, as he put it, "all the new contraptions which ships did not have when I was at sea." And the sailors, from officers down, had responded to the every wish of the smiling, modest Poland with a "Yes, Captain," which sent a flush of genuine pride and gratitude to his brown eyes.

This was Joseph Conrad, ex-master, in his element, among the intelligent seafarers whose type had been his comrades and shipmates on many a long voyage in the happy past—fellows who knew his worth and appreciated him, and loved him because after his retirement he had given to the world in matchless prose something of their life, with its perils and beauties, its deep emotions and its long thinking, its loyalty and its dignity. This was the man who had written "Youth," and "The Nigger of the Narcissus."
For the plaudits of those who admire his literary greatness Conrad cares little; and even less for that mob of the criticism-mad who met him at the dock to ask his opinion of this and that work and author. He is, he protested, "not a literary man," and writing is drudgery to him. Is indeed it is to most great artists, who prefer doing one thing right to accepting checks for a dozen done sloppily. He hasn't he declared, "the general culture for criticism." With these few words, Conrad, having won the approval of the Tuscania's old salts, stepped into the hearts of America's landlubbers. Modestly and plainly he made it clear to us that here was a great foreigner who had not come to lecture, and who held the title "sailor" to be a higher accolade than "critic." In Joseph Conrad we have promptly recognized a quality too little found among that host which in this country is doing more criticism than work—the quality we call character.

THE NINE OF TWELVE JURY
Why not turn about the suggestion of the people who want the United States supreme court to decide by a two-thirds vote, and ask whether it is necessary that our ordinary courts require an unanimous jury verdict?
People are having it forcibly impressed upon them that the highest court in the land makes its decisions of fact and law by a majority vote. At the other extreme the jury system—whose sentimental weakness and slowness are a factor in crime and the delay of justice—puts the burden of proof so heavily and unnecessarily upon the counsel that it must appeal not only to the intelligence of jurymen but to the nitwit and the sob sister in the panel.
There ought to be some leeway to let the country out of this needless waste of oratory on the possible incapable or two sitting in each jury dozen. If nine out of twelve men and women decide a person is guilty or innocent certainly as near a moral certainty has been arrived at as is possible. Very seldom, if that many agree, will there be very much reason on the side of those who do not. Usually the minority will be distinguished by a dumb stubbornness against the facts, or by out-and-out mental and temperamental incapacity for balancing evidence. If counsel for the defense cannot create a reasonable doubt in the minds of four out of twelve men, a California commentator justly argues that he must be a poor lawyer or his client must have lamentably failed to cover his tracks.

OFFICIAL GERMAN LOSSES
Germany, according to official statistics issued recently from Berlin, lost 1,846,230 dead in the World war. Of this number, 56,133 were officers, 212,069 were non-commissioned officers, and 1,572,523 were enlisted men. The number of wounded, so incapacitated as to never again resume the pursuits attendant upon health and possession of limb, is not given. But it must be staggering.
Of all European nations, none should know the cost of the war better than Germany. Yet, apparently, no nation knows less. The figures will stand as an everlasting monument to the fruitlessness of armed struggle, a lesson to coming generations of the toll of wars that could be avoided.

THE BOOMERANG HABIT
Is America going to give up the habit of the boomerang?
The boomerang is the interesting scheme, or lack of any scheme, which economists would probably call the self-correcting quality of the industrial order. For instance, the building trades in New York, reaping a record income and paying high wages, have made the human mistake of not knowing where to stop. The result is a sort of buyers' strike—that is, a reduction of demand because price had reached too high a margin—causing, according to the Chicago Tribune, a suspension of building projects in New York in the amount of $100,000,000, and in Chicago of $75,000,000.

In the past all America has got in the habit of thinking the boomerang, with its periodic depressions and, in the old days, its panics, is absolutely necessary as a sort of offset to an uncontrollable buoyancy and overhopefulness in the Yankee nature. Americans must, we have been taught to believe, always move in a curve and never stay on a level of sound prosperity; they must carry everything too far, and then be corrected by the smash represented in stocks left on their hands, securities inflated far beyond their value and suddenly punctured, banks loaning money on customers' commodities which have gone into the speculative price stage and are suddenly, almost overnight, halved in their value.

To be sure this is automatic—almost mechanical—and economists who delight in giving pleasant names to what is, merely because it is, rather no end of satisfaction from describing the marvelous cogings and self-corrections which are in effect nothing but the backwash of human nature. People used to say similarly that panics were necessary, but we have lost that absurd notion since the Federal Reserve went into effect.

Of course there is a vast difference between twelve little boards of experts sitting in as many cities and deciding when credit expansion shall stop, in the whole body of American business men in 300,000 manufacturing establishments deciding when it will be judicious to apply the breaching and keep the rig from getting into a runaway. But Herbert Hoover, at least, is convinced that there is enough good sense in America to turn from the Boomerang of Pendulum system to one of foresight and intelligence.

So far only the biggest business men and the economists have laid claim to the ability to understand when to stop expansion, and if the economic theorists were actually put in charge of American industry they would soon have it in a terrible muddle. What Mr. Hoover really means is that the ordinary business man can avoid the boomerang by educating himself to know when it is coming, and after all there is great hope in that—far more than in agreeing with the parties who think the boomerang is sacred machinery that can't be disturbed.

REST AND ARREST
Fortunately for me, writes Mr. J. E. Stocker, I learned before it was too late, how to fight tuberculosis, with the result that at the present time mine is what is termed an arrested case.
Mr. Stocker wrote this in June, 1921, in the Journal of the Outdoor Life, published by the National Tuberculosis Association, 370 Seventh-ave, New York, N. Y. He had learned in January, 1916, that he had tuberculosis—his doctor found the tubercle bacilli in the sputum then. The latter part of September, 1916, his attention was called to some books in the public library which he read. From these books, he writes:

"I learned that rest is by far the most important element in the treatment of tuberculosis, that rest is even more important than fresh air. . . . The books gave me the assurance that one need not have any fears for any ill effects upon other bodily organs or functions from a prolonged stay in bed. . . . This naturally arouses curiosity as to what books gave Mr. Stocker such sound ideas. He names some books at the close of his article, heading the list, of course, with the classic, Dr. Lawson Brown's 'Rules for Recovery from Tuberculosis.' This little book, published by Lea & Febiger, New York City is crammed full of solid meat; every one who has to fight tuberculosis, should have a copy to study. It is generally to be found in public libraries. The other books named by Mr. Stocker are Dr. D. M. King's 'The Battle with Tuberculosis,' Thomas C. Galbraith's 'Playing the Lone Game, Consumption,' Dr. John E. Hawes, 2nd, 'Consumption,' and the Journal of the Outdoor Life."
In the free pamphlet reprint or version of Mr. Stocker's Outdoor Life article 'How I Won the Battle With Tuberculosis in My Own Home' which is distributed by the Tuberculosis Society of Detroit and Wayne County (five cents a copy to persons residing outside of Wayne County) the list of books is omitted.

Remember that Mr. Stocker's tuberculosis was arrested—which means he recovered—and that he still has his health. Then consider what he says further about rest:

"As nearly as I have been able to grasp them, the main reasons why such complete and prolonged rest is needed to bring about recovery from tuberculosis are:

"Every motion we make, no matter how slight, uses up a certain amount of fat or protein; the less we move about the less energy, fat or protein will be used, leaving a greater proportion to heal the diseased tissue."
"When walking or even when sitting we unconsciously breathe more deeply than when resting in bed, giving the lungs more work to do. In order to give the natural healing process a chance to form the scar tissue with which nature tries to heal the diseased parts of the lungs, it is necessary to give the lungs the greatest amount of rest possible—which means absolute rest in bed."

"The best results are obtained by resting in bed long enough for a sufficient amount of scar tissue to form to make it safe to begin walking exercises. Many relapses occur because over exercise has put too much of a strain upon the scar tissue already formed, causing it to tear apart and permitting the bacilli and toxins to escape from the walling areas and infect other parts of the lungs."

This is all good pathology and good sense. And remember, it is the wisdom of one who has won the battle against TB.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Indian
What does a large excess of indican in the urine indicate?—K. B. R.
Answer—I don't know. Tears ago it was the fashion to attribute it to intestinal putrefaction, in stasis from various causes, or to some localized septic condition somewhere in the body, but when, an excess of indican is found in the presence of good health it is hard to explain.

Hard Drinking
Is so-called hard water injurious to the human system? Has it a tendency to form gallstones? Where could I get the drinking water from the well at our country place analyzed? Does hard water harden the arteries?—Mrs. H. C.
Answer—Hard water does not injure the system and bears no relation to gallstones or to stone in the kidney or bladder or to hardening of the arteries. Any chemist can analyze drinking water.

"Persons should be big enough to disregard work at all times," said Mr. Goodrich, addressing the local Rotary club, "because it tends to make one stagnant."
—FOND DU LAC REPORTER
And, the world provides many a shining example—even though Mr. Goodrich was talking on the subject "Worry."

Eight men faced the starter in the two-mile grind at the Lawrence-Oshkosh-Stevens-Point triangular track meet last Saturday. One by one, like the bottles on the wall, men dropped out as the race wore on until finally, with a lap to go, only two men were left, making it impossible for a third point to be awarded. There's a worthwhile moral in this happening. One of the chaps who dropped out early in the chase says he'll never do it again. Third place would have won for him his numerals for which he has vainly striven several years. The two men who actually finished did so largely on their nerves. Has any reader of the Post-Crescent ever heard of all contestants dropping out of a long-distance shag before the finishing line was reached? That would be one for the book!

Wherein lies the difference between the reporter and the sheriff? One has a nose for news and the other has a nose for you finish it.

Ancients Liked To Tend Garden
(Gardner Teull, in The Independent.)
When Sir Thomas Browne wrote that "In garden delight 'tis not easy to hold a mediocrity; that insatiable pleasure is seldom without some extremity," he wrote with understanding. But while I grant you that garden enthusiasms are not universal—just as bibliomania, the love of old china, a passion for antiques and curios are no more commonly shared by the world at large than is the much overworked taste for olives—it is, I think, more universally latent than any other one of man's simplest delights. It needs only a little stirring to be awakened in the heart of anyone, some atavistic attachment to Eden perhaps. Over 3,000 years ago an Egyptian story teller inscribed his papyrus with the Tale of the Garden of Flowers and this nineteenth dynasty man of letters could say "The garden is today in its glory." When the managers of the International Flower show, held in New York recently, planned to exhibit the prototype of every flower garden in old Egypt of King Tutankhamen's day the circle was tied by the bow-knot of the love of garden things.

If for the moment, I myself am denied a garden of my own or am far from the gardens of my friends, I like to remember that there are such things. Before me is a little book of Epicurus' Morals Englished by old Dr. Charleton, Anno Domini 1655, wherein one turns to the following: "As for myself, truly (I speak modestly and therefore may be permitted) I am not only well content, but highly pleased with plants and fruits growing in these, my own little gardens, and have this inscription over the door, 'Stranger, here, if you please, you may abide in good condition. Here the supreme good is pleasure. The steward of this homely cottage is hospitable, humane and ready to receive you. He shall afford you barleybroth and pure water of the spring and say, friend, are you not well entertained? For these gardens do not invite hunger but satisfy it; nor increase your thirst with drinks, while they should extinguish it, but wholly overcome it with a natural and grateful liquor.' It has always seemed to me that these oldtimers knew how to use their gardens. Pliny Secundus, Fronto, Theophrastus and the rest of them knew how to use them better than we do, and we may well turn to them for instruction in gardening's greater delights. Perhaps if our schools treated their pupils to bits of this sort from the ancients instead of so eternally dividing up the world into three uninteresting parts the study of the classics would be more popular.

Q. What should beads be strung on? A. D. S.
Q. A thread waxed with beeswax, or dental floss is durable for stringing beads. A good method is to string the beads, leaving them loose on the string. Fasten one part of the clasp at the end next to the needle and run the thread back through the beads, making a single knot between every bead.
Q. What is the origin of the expression "There is something rotten in Denmark?"
A. "There is something rotten in Denmark" is an adaptation from a similar sentence used in Shakespeare's "Hamlet."—"Something is rotten in the State of Denmark." Hamlet, the Prince of Denmark, is said to have made this remark when he suspects that his father was murdered.

A. Low frequency wireless telegraphy was invented by an Englishman named Preece in 1895. High frequency was discovered by Marconi, an Italian inventor, in 1896.
Q. Who was ruling in England when the Puritans left? P. U.
A. This name was given in the time of Queen Elizabeth and the first two Stuarts to those who opposed traditional and formal religious usages and advocated simpler forms of faith and worship than those established by law. As a political party the Puritans were powerful during the reign of the Commonwealth from 1649 to 1659, but many had emigrated to New England before that time.
Q. Where are parlor matches made? B. B. C.
A. Matches are made chiefly in Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, Germany, Austria, China, Japan, France and the United States. In this country in 1914, there were 3,800 men employed in the industry. One company makes 60 per cent of the American product, which is equivalent to about 250,000,000 per year.

Africa Wants Toilet Goods
(From Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.)
The annual importation of toilet preparations, including tooth pastes, into Portuguese East Africa is over 25,000 kilograms, according to a report to the department of commerce from Consul Cecil M. P. Cross at Lourenco Marques.
The most important single item, says Consul Cross, is tooth paste, of which England is the chief source. The yearly importation exceeds 5,000 kilograms. American tooth pastes are on the market and are popular products of American branch factories in England composing a considerable per centage of the imports of tooth paste officially credited to the United Kingdom. Next to tooth paste, toilet preparation imports consist of lotions, creams, lipsticks, rouges, etc., which come mainly from Great Britain, France and Portugal.
The main customers for these articles are Europeans. The native complexion is adapted by nature to the climate and requires less artificial assistance.
The exchange situation has recently upset the markets, and British and European exporters have been demanding cash in advance. The consul thinks the American firms willing to make concessions are in better position now to make worthwhile connection in Lourenco Marques than they have been for some time. The previous handicap of remoteness has been remedied by the installation of direct monthly steamer service between the United States and South Africa.

CIVIC LEAGUE DID MUCH IN TEN YEARS FOR NEW LONDON

Cleanup Day Was Its First Accomplishment Of Improvement Body

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Cleanup day was inaugurated in New London in 1913 and it was one of the first successes of the then newly organized Civic Improvement league which celebrated its tenth anniversary Monday evening. This fact was told in the secretary's report presented by Mrs. E. C. Jost. In that first year a flower and vegetable contest for school children was successfully staged, the report said. A curfew ordinance was secured, a same fourth was arranged, $150 was spent on furniture and fixtures for the public library, a charity nurse was employed for a while, and Red Cross seals were sold. In 1914 a nurse was again employed for part time, books were donated for the library and parcels were collected for the "Christmas ship." The next year, 1915, four drinking fountains were presented to the city and many improvements about the library and the grounds were made for. The league circulated petitions to enforce the law closing the saloons on Sundays and at 11 o'clock nights. It also bought milk for underfed school children.

Other extracts from the report were these: 1916, maintained a day nursery during baby week, contributed $25 to the Bird club, supplied soldiers with current magazines.

1917, paid for milk for school children. Placed bronze tablet in library.

1918, purchased portable tub. Helped in homecoming day.

1919, maintained story hour for children at library hall. Took charge of Girls clubrooms.

1920, contributed $125 to Red Cross, entertained 27 children from Milwaukee, circulated petition for new depot, started a loan closet for mothers, bought curtains for bath house, served ice cream cones at band concerts and gave the proceeds ($51.13) to start the fund for uniforms for the band.

In addition to the above Christmas seals were sold each year.

HAROLD FRANK IS PICKED AS BEST PUPIL IN SCHOOL

Senior Awarded Lang Trophy For Excellency In School Work

Kaukauna—Harold Frank, senior, was chosen by the faculty as the best all-around high school student for the school term just ending at a meeting of high school teachers Monday afternoon in the high school. Having been declared the leading student from a standpoint of scholarship and interest in extra curricular activities, Frank will be presented with the Lang trophy on commencement night. The trophy is a silver loving cup offered annually by A. M. Lang, jeweler. The custom was started last year when John T. Hale, also a senior, received the trophy.

Frank, who will represent the graduating class as salutatorian, won the highest grades of any student in school for this term and received an average of 92.9 per cent for the entire four years, losing to Florence Goetzman in the race for highest honors by one-tenth of one per cent. Besides this, Frank was a member of the high school football team, won a berth on the basketball squad, participated in oratory and was a member of the debating team which represented the high school in its contests. He is also a representative of the senior class on the student council.

Only two other students were considered eligible in the trophy race. They were Elizabeth Schussman and Curiss Meyer. Frank, however, gained such a lead by his participation in activities other than regular studies, that he won easily.

Essex Cabriolet Makes Great Business Car

"The plugging of Essex cab on the market, by the Hudson Motor Car Company, has stimulated a desire for this type of car for commercial purposes," says J. T. McCann, local Hudson-Exeter dealer. "We are making an effort to get to the business man with our proposition of economical transportation. It is particularly useful to salesmen. The Sun Maid Raisin Growers of Fresno, Calif., one of the most progressive business organizations in the country, recently bought a single fleet of 60 Essex cabriolets, to be shipped to its salesmen throughout the country. A New York state public utility has a fleet of Essex cars, and it declares the Essex the all-around most economical car in the world."

"The Essex Cabriolet not only fulfills the requirements of schedule with low cost per mile, but it also delivers the representative to his destination fresh and fit to do business. In addition to the cabriolet, all types of Essex cars have the qualities of economy and durability, with low upkeep which makes them ideal for fleet owners. If cars of larger capacity are required, the Hudson supplies the same qualities. The feature of Hudson-Exeter is dependable all round value."

COUNCIL SEEKING MEANS TO REMOVE TRAFFIC HAZARDS

Narrow Street And Car Lines Make Driving Dangerous, Council Says

Kaukauna—Means of eliminating the danger to pedestrians and traffic on the street between Wisconsin and Doty-st were discussed at an adjourned meeting of the common council Tuesday evening in the council chambers. The Green Bay-Kaukauna and the Appleton-Kaukauna interurban cars meet on Law-st in that zone and occasionally the cars stand on the street for several minutes, blocking traffic.

The street is hardly wide enough to allow automobiles to pass between the street car and the curb. Parking has been restricted in that zone but complaint has been made that the restriction drives strangers away from the hotel on that corner. Other business places are likewise affected. Members of the council believed that if the Appleton cars are required to run off the street as the Green Bay cars do, much of the danger would be eliminated. The councilmen were of the opinion that parking space should be provided for automobiles from the corner of Wisconsin-ave at least to the Bijou theatre.

BUT ROAD OIL

The council accepted the bid of Ernest R. Landmann to supply 20,000 gallons of 50 per cent road oil at 7 cents per gallon to be used on the streets this summer. Only one other bid, that of the Camden Petroleum Co., was received but that company's bid was for oil too heavy for use on the city roads. A petition of A. E. Mayer and A. T. Mayer, asking permission to build an outside stairway two feet wide in the alley between Second-st and Third-st was granted with the provision that the stairway be not more than two feet wide and that it be removed at the order of the common council whenever necessary. A report of the north district roads committee was presented. A team of horses valued at $250 and wagons, dump carts, harnesses and accessories was purchased by the committee from the Union Bag and Paper Corp. for $300. The bill was allowed by the council.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving.

From Oil Derrick to Service Station

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station with its modern conveniences, economical operation, scientific management and quick, courteous attendants, is the last link in that complete chain of service, whose first link is the derrick in the oil fields.

The Service Station visualizes the thrift, the attention to detail, care in handling products and avoidance of waste, which are conspicuous in every branch of the Company's activities in producing, shipping, refining and distributing. These methods insure rigid economy in operation, thus enabling the Company to maintain a low price for its products.

The Service Station is the one link in the long chain which the motorist sees. It is the point of contact between the Company and the motoring public.

In locating these stations, extreme care is taken to see that they are so placed as to meet the convenience of the motorist. That this care is appreciated is made manifest by the increasing demand for extension of these facilities.

It is the ambition of this Company to have a Service Station so located that you can secure your requirements of its products, when and where you need them.

The next time you drive up to a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station, observe carefully the way it is arranged, the facilities offered for your convenience, the high type of men acting as attendants, and the care and thoroughness with which they serve you.

By doing this you will be able to visualize that intangible factor—the ideals of service animating the 27,000 men and women who go to make up the personnel of this Company.

Dependability

MANAGING your estate for the welfare of your family is a business in itself—not an occasional occurrence.

An individual executor or trustee has often limited ability, generally limited experience and always limited life. He must be busy with his own affairs. How much time will he give to yours?

MANY SEEKING JOB AS RAIL MAIL CLERK

Examiner Obligated To Obtain More Blanks—Test Scheduled May 26

A large number of persons locally seem to be eager for positions as rail-way postal clerk. The supply of application blanks became exhausted early, and Herman J. French, local secretary of the civil service commission, found it necessary to get more. Examinations for this position are held very seldom, hence the desirous of being placed on the list of eligibles should take advantage of the opportunity offered in the examination to be held in the Appleton post-office on May 26, or Saturday of next week, Mr. French says. Those who pass the examination will be placed on the eligible list from which selections will be made for vacancies in the tenth civil service district which comprises five states besides Wisconsin.

The entrance salary is $1,600 a year, with good opportunities for promotion. Positions requiring similar qualifications in other branches of service at higher or lower salaries may also be filled from this examination. Applicants must be between 18 and 35 years, weigh not less than 130 pounds and measure at least 5 feet 5 inches in height. They must also submit a photograph of themselves taken within the last two years.

ENGLISH DUDES IMITATE PRINCE

By Associated Press

London—George Fifth may be king of England, but from the standpoint of the "knuts," his son, the Prince of Wales, is a far more important person. For he is King of the Fashions. George Rex may wear any old thing and nobody pays any particular attention. But let "David, Prince," wear something new and the next morning all the "knuts" are down at their tailors in Jermyn street ordering the very same thing. In England a "knut" isn't necessarily a "nut" but a person who is dippy about clothes in other words, a dude.

A little trip around the clock with the prince shows what all young Englishmen who can afford it are wearing. Well then—ordinarily in the morning after the prince gives a hurried glance at his person, he dons a plain white sweater and a pair of running "slacks" and takes a run around the gardens of the palace where he happens to be—just to keep in good trim. Later in the morning, if there is some wedding he is to attend, you may see him all dolled up as follows: high silk hat, three-button cuffed overcoat usually of dark blue or black, striped trousers.

The prince is fond of the high hat. They call them "toppers" over here. He often wears them when he goes to the races as a mere spectator. Then his garb is a black afternoon coat heavily braided and striped trousers.

Ordinarily when knocking about town in the afternoon he wears a light gray or tan street suit. They call them "lounging suits" over here. If he happens to go out for a game of golf, he dazzles the crowd with his zig-zag sweater. It has as many bright colors and jazzy lines as some of the designs found in the tomb of old King Tut.

At night, if an affair is very formal, he is, of course, in a regular evening dress. If the affair is informal, he wears what we call a Tuxedo, what the English always call a dinner jacket, and what the French call a "smoking."

His influence on men's wear is all pervading. You can't get away from it, no matter how modest the tailor to whom you go. The other day I was having a suit fitted. I buttoned all the buttons on the vest—always a waistcoat over here.

"Oh," protested the tailor's fitter, "you don't button that bottom button. It is always left unbuttoned."

"But why?"

"Because 'Is Ignance, the Prince of Wales leaves it unbuttoned."

LOCAL BUS LINES ARE LISTED IN TIME TABLE

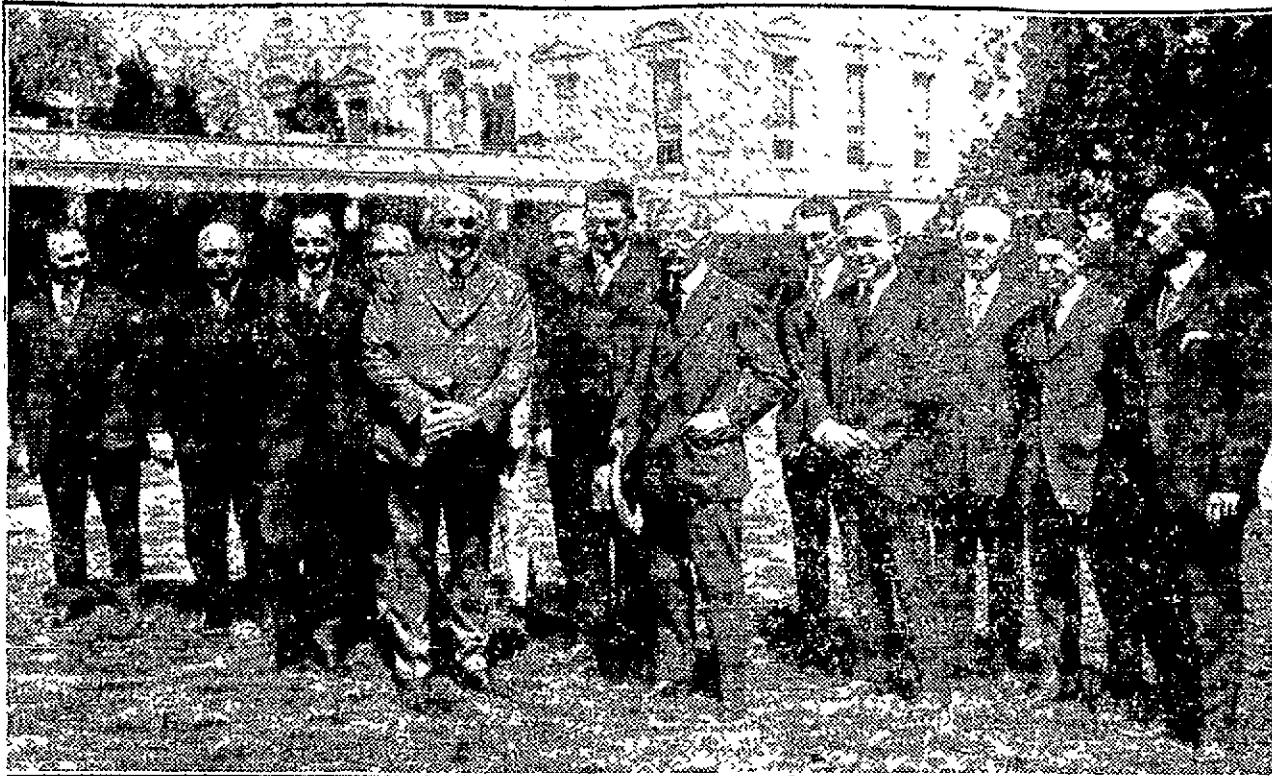

The importance of motorbus lines is demonstrated by the fact that the time table of some of them, notably the Inter-County Bus Line between Appleton and New London, now appears in the Official Commercial Guide, a monthly publication that covers the states of Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Michigan. The publication gives the time table of steam and electric roads and many of the bus lines are used extensively by commercial men.

THEY OBTAIN MILLIONS FOR U. S. TREASURY

People of the Seventh Federal Reserve district, which includes Wisconsin, Iowa, northern Illinois and Indiana, and southern Michigan, bought more Treasury Savings certificates in 1922 than any other district, according to word received by Postmaster William H. Zuehlke from William B. Bosworth, district chairman. The "championship" of this district is attributed to the ready response of the people and the cooperation of the postmasters. Purchases of the certificates here have been liberal, Mr. Zuehlke said.

Treasury certificates have become a permanent part of government financing. It was said at a meeting just held in Washington and attended by the savings districts from the twelve federal reserve districts of the United States. A billion dollars of the public debt will be carried in the form of these certificates, which will be sold to the public during the next four years. Half of the 1923 quota of $250,000,000 has already been sold. The certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $100 and $1,000, maturing in five years, but they may be cashed any time upon demand. They may be purchased at the postoffice or through banks.

APPLETON PAIR HURT IN TIPOVER

A Chevrolet coupe occupied by Elmer Winfield and William Roth of Appleton turned turtle on the Sherwood road shortly before noon Monday. The city ambulance of Neenah was called and Winfield was unconscious when picked up. His scalp was lacerated. Roth suffered several abrasions upon his face. The two men were taken to Theda Clark hospital. Roth returned home late in the afternoon and Winfield early Tuesday morning.

He took the cuffs of "Dog" Leyton submissively.

But "Dog" Leyton was captain of the ship and his father.

He cringed when rough sea faring men clashed.

But he forgot his fear when one of them aimed a knife at another, and he seized it, butting it overboard, only to be beaten again for the act. He swallowed his father's scorn of women. But he rebelled when the captain discredited the girl he loved, and he who had been weak became a man of terrible purpose when he learned from the lips of his dying father of the wrong that had been done his mother by another man.

That is the picture of "Fury," Leyton, second mate of the four-masted schooner "Lady Spray," masterfully portrayed by Richard Barthelmess in "Fury," the extraordinary First National picture that is playing to delighted audiences at the Elite theatre this week.

Face Powder Doesn't Sell By Barrel Here

How many boxes of face powder does it take to fill a barrel? Topekans, Kans., dealers seem to know for they are selling powder now in terms of barrels, but not so in Appleton. When a reporter tried to inveigle the local merchants into saying Appleton women also bought barrels of it, none would admit that this was true.

Although Topekans may dispose of 40 barrels of face powder in one week they may enjoy the notoriety of it for Appleton isn't the least bit jealous. One druggist said Appleton would do mighty well if she got rid of half that quantity and another one thought it would take one week's sales to fill even a half barrel.

At any rate Appleton women certainly haven't adopted the Topeka method of applying the powder. There face must look like plaster with enough color applied over the concealed natural complexion to make it stand out like a beacon light at night. One was seen in Appleton the other day, (not a beacon light but a pasty face) but it didn't belong to an Appleton woman.

Flour is the biggest seller in shades of face powder with brunette next in line. White is probably the least in demand. Imported powders are good sellers and cold cream powder is good for many sales.

Originality must be a thing of the past in Topekans for there all faces must look alike. Here one may at least determine whether he is speaking to his best friend or next door neighbor when the two pass on the street.

SHATTUCK YACHT GOES TO MICHIGAN

Neenah Fianist's Valuable Cruiser Is Sold To Detroit Man

Arthur Shattuck's well known yacht, "Mignon", was recently purchased by William Clippert of Detroit and will be taken by Capt. Joseph Rohl to Trenton, Mich. early next week. The yacht is at DePere Coal company dock while some of its furnishings which have been stored with Kliney and sons, boat manufacturers, are placed in the boat. It is understood that Mr. Clippert will have the boat overhauled entirely and that he plans to spend at least $25,000 in refitting and equipping it. The 125-horse power engine will be replaced by a 220-horse power engine which will make it possible for the yacht to make 15 miles an hour. "Mignon" is one of the best known yachts in this part of the country. It is equipped with every modern convenience with sleeping accommodations for 14 persons besides the crew. Capt. Rohl will take the boat to Michigan with a crew of four men. Two more will be added for the summer cruises. The reasons which Capt. Rohl gives for taking the yacht to Michigan for repairs is that the boat companies in this vicinity would not be able to do the work at once. Mr. Clippert is anxious to make use of the yacht for part of this summer.

RAISE ALFALFA, AMUNDSEN SAYS

Soil Tests Show Most Parts Of County Well Adapted For Crop

That Outagamie-co soil is well adapted for the growing of alfalfa, is one of the first observations of Robert A. Amundsen, county agricultural agent. On his trips throughout the county Mr. Amundsen collected a number of soil samples. A test of the soil convinced him that it contains the necessary elements and is quite free from sourness. The soil was collected from scattered localities of the county. He observed that some of the alfalfa was killed through the winter. This was, however, not due to the soil, but rather to the severe winter itself, he said. Where snow and sleet formed a hard crust, the damage was especially noticeable. Although the 1920 state survey lists Outagamie-co with a little more than 800 acres of alfalfa, Mr. Amundsen believes that there are now 3,000 acres of the crop in the county. The quality of the alfalfa last year was of a high grade and several good crops were raised by the farmers.

High School Giving Diplomas To 162 At June Commencement

Class Is Largest Ever Graduating, Including 83 Boys And 79 Girls—Exercises Scheduled For June 1

The largest class ever to be graduated from Appleton high school will receive its diplomas at Lawrence Memorial chapel on the evening of June 1. The number is 162 which is just about twice as many students as graduated the first year that Lee C. Rasey was principal of the school. The great increase has taken place in his three years' administration. Alden Behnke will be valedictorian of the class with an average of 93.41 for his entire high school course, while Miss Helen Diderich will be salutatorian with an average of 93.20. The class is almost equally divided between boys and girls with the boys in the lead with 83 and with 79 girls.

More for Your Money

By measuring things against each other as our grandmothers did when they swapped eggs for calico, we get the clearest idea of values.

Coal and wages make up more than half the manufacturing cost of cement.

The chart above shows price fluctuations for portland cement, coal and wages during the past ten years. In each case 100 is used to represent 1913 figures, by the Government departments which compiled these statistics.

Translated into "eggs and calico" language this chart shows that a ton of coal would buy nearly twice as much cement in 1922 as in 1913. A day's wages also would buy more cement in 1922 than in 1913.

This means that even though coal and wages make up more than half its manufacturing cost, cement is now relatively lower in price than either coal or wages.

RACINE COPYING APPLETON TOURIST GREETING IDEAS

The method of registering tourists at Alicia park, Appleton's tourists campsite, and following them up with Christmas greeting cards, as practiced by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, has met with great approval by Racine business men. At a recent luncheon of the Junction Business Mens club of Racine, this plan was warmly commended. Vice President Edward Acklam said he stopped at Appleton last year, and during the holidays he received a greeting card from the local chamber of commerce, inviting him to come to Appleton again. The general opinion of the club members was that this was an excellent follow-up system. The Racine merchants will accordingly see that a register is kept at the camp this year and intend to follow the Appleton lead in the future.

COLLECTION OF RUBBISH BEGUN BY CITY TRUCKS

Cleanup Week Deposits Will Be Hauled Away By End Of Week

The city cleanup vehicles started on their routes Wednesday morning to gather the various containers of rubbish that had been stationed by residents at their street curbs during cleanup week. Two large automobile trucks were hired for the purpose, and the debris was piled several tiers high upon them.

One of the trucks started in the First and Second wards, the other began in the Third ward. The truck in the east end of the city has been instructed to travel first on all the east and west streets that are east of Superior-st and south of Second-ave. After that it will take the north and south streets in the same territory. The Sixth ward will be covered next, by taking first the route of the north and south streets.

Similar directions will be followed in the Third, Fifth and Fourth wards. It is expected that all the refuse will be hauled away by the end of the week. Residents should not deposit rubbish at the curbs where the pickup trucks have already passed.

MINNEAPOLIS HOTEL TO HAVE RADIO IN ROOMS

By Associated Press
Minneapolis—In keeping with the rapid progress of the radio movement, it will soon be possible to "listen in" from rooms of a large hotel here, which has contracted for the connecting of each of several hundred rooms with radio plugs. The guest will not have to invest in a receiving set, as headphones may be rented for a small fee from the clerk's office.

According to the plans of engineers who have worked on the scheme for several weeks, a massive aerial and three power receiving stations will be equipped in one of the top floors of the hotel. Each room will have a radio plug connected to one of the three receiving sets. Feasibility of the plan was proved recently when more than 100 rooms listened in on one concert.

The guest who wishes radio entertainment may call the office and a set of phones will be sent to him. Once connected in the plug, the set cannot be removed until released by a hotel employee, thus insuring against theft by an unscrupulous guest. A small fee is added to the hotel bill for the use of the receiving phones.

VOLIVA WON'T SAIL TO PROVE WORLD IS FLAT

By Associated Press
Zion City, Ill. — Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Zionist cult here, says he's decided to give up his idea of going Christopher Columbus one better and sailing around the world to prove that it's flat as a pancake—at least temporarily. Voliva has just been convicted on a charge of criminal libel brought against him by the pastor of an opposing sect here. And the overseer says that fighting in court has taken and will take so much of his time that he just can't spare the time to travel around the earth's rim.

One of the tenets of the Zionist belief is the world is flat and is surrounded by water. The modern geographical teaching of a ball-shaped earth is regarded as heretical and anti-Christian.

"I am getting together an expedition to sail around the outer rim of the world and prove the Zionist belief—which is the teaching of the Bible—is correct," Voliva announced a year ago.

Each Swiss Cow Paying F. W. Brick One Dollar Daily On Sale Of Cream

Dairying Profit Began At Seymour Man's Farm When He Sold Scrubs And Replaced Them With High Priced Purebreds

BY W. F. WINSEY
One dollar a day per cow for cream shipped to the Blue Valley creamery, Milwaukee, is the April average of the Brown Swiss purebred dairy herd of Fred W. Brick, rural route 1, Seymour.

Mr. Brick made the change from scrub dairy cattle to purebreds seven years ago at an aggregate initial cost of $5,500 because his book showed a very small margin between the cost of feed and labor and the amount of money he was getting for his milk. He was "up against it" and dissatisfied and realized that he must either quit dairying or improve his equipment.

With the improvement idea in mind, after he had read up on Brown Swiss cattle, Mr. Brick visited Brown Swiss herds in Oshkosh, Rockford, Ill., Fairwater, and Temah. From a Rockford herd, he selected eleven animals, from Fairwater, five, and from Temah, three. With this new acquisition on hand, he disposed of his entire herd of grades in the face of a popular belief that such an enormous expenditure would break him. But from the time the Brown Swiss herd arrived on his farm, Mr. Brick has made dairying pay and pay well.

SIRE FROM EAST
Mr. Brick's herd is now headed by Chief Black Buck Penn, seven years old, from Mr. Dixon's herd, Vailmair, Penn. This animal took first prize in the Chicago dairy show in 1917 and afterwards was on exhibition at the experiment station, agricultural college, Madison. He is perfect on points but will soon be displaced by Ben Black, a yearling, from Black Hawk dairy farm, Beloit.

Among the cows of Mr. Brick's herd, Mary C, eight years old, is the leader. Her average butterfat for the season is 5 1/2 per cent, her milk production 50 pounds a day, and butter for a year 312 pounds.

Peggy Jane, five years of age, from the herd of W. H. Boomer, Temah, is almost equal to Mary C in milk production and quantity of butterfat.

Then comes Black Beauty, three years old, daughter of Mary C, who will be fully up to her mother when she matures.

The Brown Swiss is the breed of cattle that made Switzerland famous for cheese and other dairy products. Centuries ago this breed was found roaming over the steppes and valleys of western Asia and was brought into Europe about the time the Huns overran Europe and sacked Rome. A few of these animals were imported into America from Switzerland in 1869 but today there are only 24,000 registered in the books of the Brown Swiss Breeders Association of the United States. In 1921 there were only 1,995 in Wisconsin of which number only 63 were in Outagamie-co. The breed is scarce in Europe and much

DENIES JABBER AFRAID TO MEET KAUKAUNA SHEIK

Illinois Matchmaker Proposes Young-Zwick Bout On Percentage Basis

If there are any people around Appleton who have a hunch that Jabber Young, the pride of Neenah, is afraid of Jack Zwick, the Kaukauna Sheik, they better dispossess themselves of the idea. One H. E. Owen, matchmaker for the Barry Athletic club of Elmhurst, Ill., has taken his pen in hand to inform the universe that Young isn't afraid of nobody, leastwise this fellow Zwick.

Owen feels a little put out about a story printed in this paper a few days ago. This story gave Owen the impression that Jabber was afraid of Zwick and it ain't no such thing, he says.

Owen believes that a fair way to match up these scrappers for Appleton is on the percentage basis and he hints that Jabber would be willing to sign up that way. Nobody has ever hinted that Zwick would be satisfied to take a chance with the promoter on the gate.

Owen's letter to the Post-Crescent follows:

"In reference to your paper of May 5th inst., relative to Zwick in a proposed match with Jabber Young in which your article led to the belief that Young was afraid to tackle the Kaukauna boy.

"I wish to state I have had Young box in several of my shows promoted in private around Chicago and I have found him to be one of the best welterweights in the middle west and barring none, and furthermore never withdrew from any match if the terms were right. In reference to the Zwick fight it has been stated that Zwick is to receive at least $750 for his end of the purse and only $250 was offered Young for his services. This is gross injustice and Zwick is always a big drawing card and a much better and more experienced boxer than Zwick. To properly match these two boys they should work on a percentage basis on the house. This I have found was not offered Young. If suitable terms are offered Young Appleton would see a high type boxer and a good match to please all the fight fans.

Regarding Young's fighting I have witnessed several of his fights one with out Sailor Friedman and Jabber more than held his own. Friedman refusing a second match with this Wisconsin boy. On my interviewing Mr. Fornaciari, Young's manager I was told $500 was not offered him but $250 as stated above. He also stated that in view of the fact that several of his lesser-known boxers had defeated Zwick and with Young being better than any of these boys that Jabber certainly would have no trouble with Zwick and would like to see them matched.

The above I have written you in regard to Chicago's opinion of the greatest fighter ever turned out of Wisconsin and would appreciate your publication of this article. In your sporting sheet of your great paper of which I am a subscriber."

Kromer Wants All Amateurs At Meeting

Amateurs! Attention! George "Stormy" Kromer wants to talk to you!

Mr. Kromer is a staunch believer of the amateur in sports and he is devoting his time and energy to stimulating the interest of sandlotters in baseball. He believes that big league players get their start on the sandlot and he is willing to help Appleton's young hopefuls get started.

George has called a meeting of all amateur baseball players in Appleton at Hotel Northern for 8 o'clock Thursday night. He expects every youngster in the city who has an idea that he can play baseball to be on hand at that hour so that plans for the summer can be made.

State League Chatter

Earl Howard made a successful return to State league ball when he pitched the Fond du Lac Red Sox to an 8 to 1 victory over the Marinette Menominee. Howard had plenty of zip on his fast ball and he only allowed the Twins four hits. When Earl is right, he is hard to beat.

Buster Braun probably will remember the eighth inning at Green Bay for many a moon. Buster was sneezing along without a worry in the world but the fighting Bays got to the Sheboygan hurler for ten runs and seven hits before the side was retired. Three errors helped Buster skid.

Old Fred Beebe drove his Oshkosh club into the victory. Coming into the last half of the ninth, two runs behind, the Sawdust City tribe got to the Sheboygan Menasha's hurling ace and pushed across three runs which was enough for victory. Beebe's team showed much improved form.

Zelenski, the Neenah-Menasha guardian of the red light station, has displayed plenty of class in the league games this season. Zelenski is a clean handler of ground balls and has a bulletlike whip to first. He is a standing up at the plate better and is stinging the pill on the nose.

Speaking of "Babe Ruth's" page Barten, the Sheboygan performer at the first bag. The Chairs' initial sacker got a hold of two of Smith's fast ones on Green Bay and the balls dropped out of the lot. He gets an awful swing at the plate, and when he connects, there is some crash.

Ohlin, who saw service in the old W. L. league, is now holding down the keystone sack for the M. M. Twins. If the veteran finds his batting eye, he will give the State league pitchers a lot of trouble before the season is history. Ohlin still can hit and he looks fast on the paths.

Milt Wilson is going good for Oshkosh. The normal school student displayed class with the stick against Sheboygan in the opening game and he followed this up last Sunday by poling out a homer and a pair of singles against the Menasha Falls. His fielding is also improving.

Ratcher, a Milwaukee boy, is scooping 'em up splendidly for Kaukauna at first base. His leg, which was broken last season, has healed perfectly and he is as fast as ever on his pins. Ratcher is a dangerous man at bat and against Appleton, he got to Nig Lane for a double and single.

George Hogreiver, Appleton, one of President McGillan's umpires, doesn't spend much time arguing, but with the players. Hogreiver is snappy on the playing field but maybe his system is best after all because the beefers know it is wasted time to argue with him.

The magnates in the State league are keeping their weather eye set on several of the budding stars in "Stormy" Kromer's home players circuit. It is said there are several promising youngsters coming on the scene, among them the Dodge Motors, the team representing Fondy in the Junior circuit.

Attendance figures at the second set of opening games more than fulfilled the expectations of the magnates. The contests are drawing good crowds and if the patrons hold up, there will be no lull calls.

Boston—St. Louis slugged the delivery of McNamara for six runs in the fourth inning on Tuesday and defeated Boston, 10 to 5. The game was held up for fifteen minutes on account of rain and part of it was played in a drizzle. Bottomley made three triples and Triggs' fielding was brilliant. ## APPLETON HOME PLAYERS BATTLE GREEN BAY HERE

Kromer Circuit Players Get In Practice For Sunday's Tilt

Appleton's team in the Fox River Home Players league will tackle the league leading Green Bay squad at Brandt park Saturday afternoon. Green Bay has a perfect record thus far this year.

The Appleton squad will meet for practice at 6 o'clock Thursday evening in Jones park. The squad realizes it faces a stiff battle on Sunday afternoon and wants to be in condition.

George Kromer, president of the league, said Wednesday that the boys are making a real effort to bring out their fellows so that amateur baseball can be put back on its feet. The boys are more interested in developing amateur players than they are in winning the pennant and therefore they are making no efforts to bolster their squads by importing players from other cities.

Next Sunday's schedule: Kaukauna at Oshkosh, Green Bay at Appleton, Menasha at Kimberly, DePere at Fond du Lac.

Criqui Training For Kilbane Bout Discards Carpenter's Methods

New York—In the same brilliant surroundings, amid the Hollywoods, the pansters and the cauliflowerers in which Georges Carpentier prepared for Jack Dempsey's $1,000,000 bout, little Eugene Criqui, also of France, and likewise holder of some strictly European titles, is now training to fight another American world champion, Johnny Kilbane.

Their quarrel, in which Kilbane for the first time in more than four years will fairly defend his title, is the next important bout on the rich summer program in New York. The men are to meet at the Polo grounds on Saturday, June 2. As that is less than three weeks away, Kilbane will come to New York in a few days now and probably will finish his training at the old health resort at Summit, N. J., formerly owned by Freddie Welsh, at which Dempsey began his ballyhoo exhibitions, preparatory to the Carpenter match.

Mme. Criqui is there. Criqui has not thrown up any barbed wire entanglements. He will have more trouble convincing a gallery to watch him at his training than Carpenter had to keep the gallery off the premises. Carpenter's old world hospitality appears to have

WESTERN TEAMS MOWED DOWN BY YANK'S MACHINE

Indians Third Win From Washington Keeps Them Among Leaders

Chicago—The New York Yankees start Wednesday on the last half of their western invasion with every chance of being firmly entrenched in first place when they reenter their stadium to ward off the counter-attack of the west.

On to St. Louis they go Wednesday, having taken three of four from Detroit and two all they played, from Cleveland. They battered Detroit for the third time Tuesday 9 to 5, in an uphill game in which Elmer Smith starred as a pinch hitter and Babe Ruth got his fourth home run of the year.

Cleveland made it three straight from Washington, 10 to 9, and kept within earshot of the Yanks and a respectful distance above Philadelphia whose mettle they measure Wednesday. Both the Boston-St. Louis and Philadelphia-Chicago games were prevented by bad weather.

John McGraw utilized a day off by casting off two pitchers, on one of whom, George Walberg, the lumber-jack southpaw he saved $15,000. McGraw had until Tuesday to pay $15,000 or return the pitcher to the Fortland club of the Pacific Coast league. The other hurler, Fred Johnson, was sent back to the San Antonio club of the Texas league, from whence he came.

The reinstatement of "Rosey" Bill Ryan made the loss of one of the recruits an easy one and left the Giant manager with only one player above the limit.

In the only game not called off because of inclement weather in the national league Tuesday St. Louis beat Boston 10 to 5, gaining half a step on the Giants.

"Red" Ormsby, former Chicago semi-pro pitcher is scheduled for a reception by his friends Wednesday when he makes his first appearance of the season in Chicago as an American league umpire. He is to be the recipient of a number of gifts.

Jimmy Bottomley of the Cardinals continues to shine as a slugger. He smashed out three triples in four times up, in the 10 to 5 win over the Braves.

Max Flack, star right fielder of the St. Louis Nationals is clouting the ball hard. He piled three sateties in five times up Tuesday. Edwin Eyer, Branch Rickey's rookie pitcher, who did some persistent hitting when inserted in the outfield was injected as a pinch hitter Tuesday and smashed out one of the Tim McNamara curves for a single.

Harry Heilmann Tiger slugger is giving Charley Grimm, a close run for the honors of consecutive game hitting. Heilmann ran his string to 21 against the Yankees, while Grimm's remains at 24 because of the Pittsburgh-New York postponement.

Wmaby of the Athletics had the unique record of making three errors in one inning in the sea-saw game which Cleveland won from the Senators.

Major League Pitchers Fuss About Lively Ball

Philadelphia—Major league batters are wondering what kind of a ball will be in use the coming season.

Major league pitchers are also giving some thought to the same question.

It has been rumored that the ball would be toned down a bit this year. The 1922 brand was the liveliest ball ever manufactured. The materials used in making it were the best and always uniform, so that a superior ball was always in use.

As a rule the batters have the edge in the spring. The pitchers round into shape slower than the batsmen. Bat weather in the early spring seems to affect the arms of the pitchers more than the eyes of the batters.

The usual bad weather that strikes the teams after leaving their southern camps has again been experienced this year. It was an excellent idea to start the season a week late in 1923. Otherwise many a postponed game would have been piled up during the first week of play.

The first month or so of the season invariably serves as a barometer of what is to follow. If April and May show high in the home-run feature of the game another season of swat may be looked for.

The firm that manufactures the major league baseball is located here. The heads refuse to make any comment on the ball, other than saying it is the best possible ball that can be produced. They leave the rest to your imagination.

FONDY UP AGAINST STRONG NET TEAM

Fond du Lac volley ball teams due to play in the local Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night will have their work cut out for them. The Appleton teams are in great condition, and a glance at their lineup is enough to convince anyone that the games are going to be good.

Wright of the old boys' team is supported by Samuel Plantz, H. E. Peabody, W. S. Taylor, John Bushey, and O. P. Fairfield. While each of these boys is over fifty years young, they're all light on their feet, and fast.

(The lineup of the younger team is C. O. Goehner, captain, T. C. Reuter, Fred Agrell, Guy Barlow, Al Bradford, and A. C. Remley.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans

Questions
ONE—If a fielder has the ball in his possession ready to touch a base runner, and after so doing, the ball is deliberately knocked out of his hands by the runner, what is the proper decision?
TWO—If a runner on first, believing that a fly ball is not going to be caught, starts to advance and has nearly reached third base when the fielder makes the catch does the throwing of the ball to second base before he can get back there, double him up?
THREE—If after a batted ball goes through an infielder, a base runner in the opinion of the umpire, deliberately kicks such a hit ball, what is the proper ruling?
FOUR—If there are less than two men out and a runner on third, and the batsman interferes with a play at the plate on such runner, who is called out?
FIVE—If a base runner who tries to advance on a hit to the infield, steps in front of a fielder making a play, long enough to obscure that fielder's vision and cause him to lose the play, what happens?

Answers
ONE—The runner should be called out for such an act.
TWO—In order to properly make the play, the runner should either be touched with the ball, or it should be thrown in the base he occupied when the ball was hit, and in this instance it was first.
THREE—The first base runner should be called out for interference.
FOUR—The runner coming home from third should be called out for the batter's interference with less than two out.
FIVE—The fielder has no such right to stop, and if in the opinion of the umpire, his actions were responsible for the loss of the play, he should be declared out.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

From the stories published on his bout with Dago Joe Gans, Roy Conley, the fighting Parson from Wichita, appears to have won a home in the Milwaukee fight Conley-Conley-Zwick's conqueror, was praised to the skies for his sensational fight against the St. Paul Wop and right now several of the Cream City clinic promoters are breaking their necks (and possibly their pocketbooks) to get Conley signed up for his next scrap.

The pay roll of the milk fund bouts amounted to $55,300. The other expenses including the rent of the Yankee park, war tax, etc. will run up to about another $75,000, leaving about $300,000 to the charity organization. So far as the pay roll was concerned Johnson and Willard each pulled down $25,000 apiece while even the fighters in the preliminaries walked off with 400 bucks. No wonder so many of the youngsters want to put on the padded mits.

"They can say all they want about Miller Huggins and his much abused Yank outfit but when this tribe of high salaried players start rubbing noses with Detroit and Cleveland they sure do make the fur fly. Maybe Huggins won't win a pennant this year but the Indians and Tigers are going to have a fight on their hands to drive Father Knickerbocker's American leaguers off the top of the heap."

The ancient Babe Adams, forty years old, stepped into the box the other day and tamed the Giants, 6 and 1. Evidently here is one instance where old age succeeds while youth flutters out.
It will be determined when R. Russell Shaw of Washington, chairman of the contest committee of the National Aeronautical Association, arrives here and confers with officials of the Chamber of Commerce.

Appleton Only City In Valley With No Arterial Streets

ALTHOUGH Appleton was one of the first cities in this section to advocate arterial highways, it is the last to introduce the system. It appears to be the only city in the Fox River valley that has not introduced it.

The value of a system of arterial streets for through traffic is likely to be underestimated in a city which has not yet tested its merits. In the opinion of O. F. Weissgerber, city engineer.

"Arterial highways mean well regulated traffic," said Mr. Weissgerber in an interview. "When the local automobilists once know where the arteries are, they will meet with fewer obstructions to traffic and cover the distance to their destination in faster time. Arterial streets are, therefore, time savers for the busy man."

The system gives travelers the right of way on certain designated streets and requires all others who would cross them to first come to a complete stop and allow through traffic to pass. The driver on an arterial street has the advantage of not needing to slow up at street intersections unless he himself is about to cross an artery. Should Oneida and North-sts be designated arterial highways, drivers on each street would have to stop before crossing the other artery.

"Business men, manufacturers and taxpayers in general," said Mr. Weissgerber, "should be able to transport their wares or products with the least possible delay and at a reasonable expense. A direct and fast route is therefore required for through traffic."

"Wide streets are best adapted for arterial highways, as vehicles can thereby pass each other the more readily. The widest streets should be selected as arteries, and it may become necessary to widen certain well traveled streets."

While Mr. Weissgerber would not state which streets should be made arterial streets, he referred to the plan recommended by Professor Leonard S. Smith, city planning engineer, in his report to the plan commission. The streets suggested by Professor Smith are as follows: City outlets—State-st, Second-ave, Carver-st, Foster-st, Maple Grove-st, Newberry-st and Lake-st. North and south thoroughfares—Mason-st, Cherry-Richmond sts, Morrison-st and Mendota-ave. East and west thoroughfares—College-ave, Packard-North-Pacific-sts, South River-st, Calumet-st, (in the future.) Mr. Smith also recommended cutting a diagonal road through from Appleton Junction to Richmond-st and College-ave, following the Northwestern railroad tracks. A few blocks in the business district were also named.

The reasons why these streets were suggested are obvious. The first group of streets are natural outlets for rural and inter-city traffic and this makes them natural arteries. Mason-st was suggested because it already has a subway underneath the railroad tracks. Cherry and Richmond-sts were mentioned because of the bridge that will connect these streets with Menasha. College-ave was selected for its generous width. Morrison and Mendota-sts were mentioned because they fit in with another suggested plan of making higher suggested plan of making subways at the railroad crossings.

Kinks o' the Links

Player gets off a rather poor tee shot and feels that his ball has gone out of bounds. He elects to play another ball from the tee and accept the one stroke penalty. This being done to save delay, the second shot is much better than the first one. After making it, the caddy discovers the first ball is not out of bounds. What is the proper procedure?
If after making a second shot it is discovered the ball first driven is not out of bounds, it shall continue in play without any penalty to the player for having made the second shot.

Player on reaching his ball discovers that it is not out of bounds as he believed. However, the lie of the ball is such that in order to play it, the player must stand out of bounds. Is that permissible?
If the ball is lying within bounds, a player has a perfect right to stand out of bounds in order to be in a better position to play the ball. There is no penalty for so doing.

Court Waiting To Try Partial Verdict Plan

Although the five-sixths jury verdict law, voted upon by the electors in the last general election, has been in effect for some time, it still awaits an opportunity in Outagamie county courts to prove its merits. No civil jury cases have been argued in local courts since the law became effective. Many lawyers here are inclined to be in sympathy with the feature which holds a vote of five-sixths of a jury sufficient for a verdict in civil cases. It is held that the stubborn disposition of one juror has often prevented a verdict and caused unnecessary loss to both parties in a suit.

Hen Out In Center Lays Giant 'Fruit'

Edward Schmalling, Center farmer, does not lay claim to the hen that laid the golden egg, but he believes he has a "gold mine" in the hen.

that last week laid an egg which would provide a breakfast for his family.

White leghorns are good laying hens, but it is not every day that even the best of them lay eggs the size of the one he is certain was laid by his prize fowl last week.
The egg is three times the size of an ordinary hen's egg, or about as big as a goose egg. It weighs six ounces and its girth is 8 1/2 inches, while the circumference is 8 1/2 inches. It is probable that instead of being a double egg, it has three yolks.

HEAVY WHEAT CROPS FORECAST FOR ENGLAND

By Associated Press
London—The popular notion that England is played out as a wheat producing country is all wrong, according to Professor Biffen of Cambridge university. His admirers here say that he knows more about wheat than anybody in this country, and maintain that he is the greatest authority on the subject in the world. He addressed the Bedfordshire Chamber of Agriculture on wheat the other day. He told his members that "in a very short time English wheat growing is going to come into its own." There would then, he said, be money made out of wheat raised by British farmers despite the vast crops of wheat grown in other parts of the globe.
In America, he said, the population was growing more rapidly than the wheat area, and in course of time there would no longer be a huge surplus to send to this country or anywhere else.
"England," declared Prof. Biffen, "is easily the best wheat producing country in the world with its average of 32 bushels to the acre, whereas the average for the world is only a trifle over 12 bushels to the acre."

"You're hurt bad, eh?"

"I'm going out this time, all right. But I haven't got any kick." He turned his eyes on the Big Boss. "I wanted to beat you once—just once. I guess I got my wish."

"You pals will get their wish, too," the big cattle-man replied meaningly.

"That's talk, Acklin. Just talk! This was my party. I got the dynamite for the job. I made the raft. And I sent it adrift."

"Oh, no, you didn't!" It was Morrow who spoke. He had been there for a minute, unnoticed. "You didn't make the mine that did this job. You ain't smart enough."

His men fell back as the foreman advanced to Esteban's side.

"We got the fellow that bossed this job. Caught him over in the buttes. Bodine is the man."

And Romero? Had they caught him, too? The boy had to risk a question.

"You got him with you, have you?"

Cash grinned.

"He's here directly. And the other one, too." Cash didn't risk another name. Esteban didn't notice that. His heart sank. Evidently Cash was not bluffing.

"Mercedes . . . Basilio!" Esteban roared. His head fell forward on his chest. Blaze put his arm around him. In a few words he told the boy about his sister.

"But Basilio?" Esteban cried so that all heard. "Bodine promised to get him out in time."

He reached up and pulled Kildare's ear down close to his mouth. "You look out for her, will you? Tell her that I tried to get word to her and the baby."

"Buck up," Blaze pleaded. "You're not going out."

"Hang on to me," the boy begged. "I'm choking. I'll be gone in just a minute."

His head fell forward. The little circle of men grew quiet. Blaze put his ear to the boy's heart.

"He's not dead," he breathed hopefully. "Somebody get my horse. I'm going to get him to a doctor. God knows he may have a chance."

Acklin said nothing as his men helped Kildare.

"Where've you got Bodine?" he demanded when Blaze had left.

"Got him?" Cash questioned. "I ain't got him nowhere."

"What?"

"I ain't seen Bodine. I was just runnin' a windy on the kid. I picked up the fresh trail of three horses this evening. They had come in from Webster Creek. I've been chasin' back and forth tryin' to pick 'em up in the dark, or I'd 'a been here sooner."

"Where made you think Bodine was among them?"

"Shucks! You don't think there's anyone else down there with the nerve or brains to do this thing. It took an old hand to make a mine that would rip out that wall. I knew Bodine was behind the whole thing."

"No do you think was the third man?"

Cash shook his head.

"I ain't even got a guess."

Acklin contorted his mouth nervously.

"No matter," he said after an interval. "We'll make Bodine tell before we are through. We'll all ride to the ranch first. I'm going to turn out every man we've got. Cash, we'll throw a circle over this country that no one'll crawl through. It we pick up Bodine, he'll be among the dead departed by morning."

Morrow's eyes bulged.

"You mean you're going to stretch him?"

"That's exactly what I mean," Acklin growled.

CHAPTER XXX
AMONG THE RUINS

Bodine had relieved Romero of the responsibility of getting Mercedes and Basilio out of the path of the flood. Finding Mercedes gone, Buck picked up the child and dashed for Webster Creek. The explosion came as he entered the ranch-house.

Shorty, lantern in hand, followed him inside.

"Guess we had company this afternoon," he growled. "A lady at that."

Taking Shorty's lantern, the fire followed the train Esteban and Romero and he had taken that afternoon. A few minutes' search convinced him that his supposition was correct; Mercedes had followed them into the hills! Her only object could have been to stop them. Well, she had been too late, or had missed her brother altogether.

It was the work of a minute for him to pen a note to her. To prove his point with the girl, he made the child scrawl an attempt at his name across the bottom of the note. This accomplished, he sent Shorty to deliver it.

Concerted Action On Part Of Women Will Put
End To War, Woman Says

BY MARIAM HALE

New York—"Nothing but a concerted effort on the part of women everywhere will save the world from another great war."

This is the statement of Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, president of the National Women's Party, who has just returned from her villa in southern France.

She curtailed her regular spring trip to be present at special sessions of the Women's Party held in Baltimore, Wilmington and Richmond.

Though she is unwilling to discuss in detail the various European complications, she says the fumbling of statesmen everywhere is pathetic to witness.

She blames the present disorganization upon men who have run the world entirely from a masculine point of view.

"MAN HAS FAILED"

Man made civilization has demonstrated itself a complete failure," she told me.

"By this I do not mean that I fell women alone should rule the world," she amended, "but I believe we are suffering from domination by the male brain which, after all, is only half and not the whole."

"I know women have certain talents and adaptabilities for which the world is suffering and that together with men we may work out a civilization which will be bearable."

WANTS WOMEN UNITED

Mrs. Belmont's program is a gigantic union of women, national and international in scope.

She has purchased for the Women's Party at the cost of $150,000 permanent headquarters in Washington and has made a gift of it to the organization. This is the largest gift any woman has made to the cause of women during her lifetime.

Though she is a great grand mother, Mrs. Belmont's day, whether she is in New York in Marble House at Newport, at her Long Island home or in her Mediterranean villa, is as strenuous as that of any metropolitan business man.

And her interests in the Women's Party take precedence over all

Household
Suggestions

CHEST WITH SIDE DOOR

An excellent linen chest is one where the door is in the front instead of on the top, dropping from a hinge at the bottom. Shelves may be arranged inside and the linens kept in good shape, while the top may be covered and used for a seat.

SOFA CUSHIONS

Use figured cushions on plain sofas, and on a figured sofa use plain cushions of the predominating tone.

KITCHEN BEAUTY

If you paint the inside of your kitchen cupboards a bright, cheerful color, the dishes will look very attractive against them and you will probably enjoy keeping them in good order.

SILK HOSIERY

Many women find they save their silk hosiery by sewing several rows of machine stitching about the top just below the reach of the supporter. This prevents runs.

BURN OUT ODORS

Clean your vegetables, fowls or fish on a paper and burn the paper.

DUSTERS FROM STOCKINGS

Sew together the legs of your discarded stockings and make good serviceable dusters.

TESTED RECIPES

ASPARAGUS

By Bortha E. Shapleigh

Allow six stalks of asparagus to each serving. Trim the stalks, cutting off all the hard part, to be used in soup. Remove the scales, a long process, but which pays, making the stalks much more delicate. Steam the stalks until tender, cool and serve with the following sauce:

One-half cup olive oil, three tablespoons butter, one hard-boiled egg, finely chopped; one-half teaspoon chopped onion; one tablespoon chopped green pepper; one tablespoon chopped red pepper; one teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon paprika; one-eighth teaspoon black pepper.

Mix all the above ingredients together, place in a cold pan, and, when ready to serve, heat for a minute before pouring it over the asparagus.

FASHION HINTS

PLAIN SKIRT

A skirt of plain black satin is often joined to the most elaborately beaded or embroidered blouse in the most violent colors.

MOIRE BANDS

Small bands of moire ribbon arranged vertically make unusual trimming for a gown of beige crepe. They match the material in color and form the only trimming.

EMBROIDERED HOSE

Embroidered stockings for this season are very elaborate and are frequently done in vivid colors.

GRADUATION GOWNS

White embroidered georgette is a popular material for graduation frocks and wedding gowns. The material itself is so decorative that scarcely any trimming is required.

YELLOW CHERRIES

A sand colored hat of tough straw has a large bunch of vivid yellow cherries under the brim.

WITH DYED LACE

A summer frock of white organdie is trimmed with tiny ruffles of valen- comes lace dyed king blue. It is worn with blue shoes and a blue hat.

WHITE SILK GLOVES

If you dry your white silk gloves in the dark they will not be as apt to turn yellow as if you submit them to sunlight.

FURS AND MYSTERY
A. CARSTENSEN

Appleton's Exclusive Furrier
AS A FURRIER BUYS—

Fur buying is a side to the fur business equally as important to the prospective purchaser as the selling of furs, whether they be sold honestly or dishonestly.

To deal honestly with the customers of his concern, the fur buyer must know furs from A to Z—he must know exactly what he is buying and must sell them for exactly what they are. Then, too, he must know just what constitutes a reasonable buying price and a legitimate selling price. Unless he knows these things and unless he deals honestly with the public, most of whom know really little regarding furs, he will not take long for his concern to establish a reputation not at all envied by its more honest competitors.

A dealer who wishes to deliberately deceive his patrons may, easily enough, offer imitations upon which the workmanship is so skillful that it is hard to distinguish between them and the genuine. Of course it is easy to detect badly or heavily dyed imitations for the under fur is darkened beyond its natural state and the skin itself is stained, but a cleverly dyed skin will deceive all but an expert.

In imitation of the more or less expensive fur the domestic cat provides a wide variety of furs. White rabbit is sometimes sold as ermine, chinchilla or even fox; the fur of the muskrat readily lends itself to imitations of seal, mink, sable and otter; hare skins dyed have been sold as sable, fox or lynx, and common red fox skins are dyed in imitation of black fox and with white hairs added are sold as silver fox, one of the most expensive furs on the market.

The price of furs varies perhaps more than that of any other commodity of wide range of value, and, as shown, substitution of one fur for another is comparatively easy.

Cleanliness Necessary For Dainty Hands

BY MME. HELENE RUBINSTEIN
International Beauty Expert

A woman's hands should be no less lovely than her face and may be cultivated to a point of exquisiteness quite beyond that of her features.

The added attraction which any woman may achieve through the cultivation of her hands more than repays the trouble it makes.

The dainty feminine type of woman always has lovely hands, even if she does all her own housework and indulges in outdoor sports.

Immaculate cleanliness is the first consideration. When you cleanse your hands from time to time during the day do it thoroughly. Don't dabble them in a little cold water which rinses off the surface dirt and grinds in the rest.

Wash in tepid water, using a good soap. If soft water is not available, add a little borax or a few drops of ammonia.

Scrub the nails with a nail brush and remove any stains with lemon juice. Then, after drying the hands, use a little glycerine or any soothing lotion that agrees with your skin.

At night rub cold cream well into the hands, after cleansing, particularly about the nails. Then draw on a pair of roomy old gloves and keep the hands anointed and protected during the night.

In the morning wash the hands in soap and water. Then massage a little skin food into the skin and train down the cuticle about the nails with an orange-wood stick.

The nails, of course, require extra care, but every woman can be her own manicurist if she will equip herself with slender, curved scissors, a nail file, a buffer and an orange-wood stick. It might be well to mention that it is no longer considered good form to over-polish the nails or to file them in long points.

A slender, flexible wrist and well rounded arm add to the beauty of the hand and can be attained by exercise and massage. All arm exercises are bound to be good for the hands and the graceful motions learned in classical dancing train them to assume poses of beauty and grace.

IN THE DELICACY OF HER FEATURES AND THE PURITY OF HER COMPLEXION AND HER COLORING LIES THE BEAUTY OF JEANNE BAGELS. SHE ENHANCES THESE ATTRIBUTES BY SCRUPULOUS CARE, AND THE KNOWLEDGE OF EXACTLY THE COLORS AND MATERIALS TO WEAR TO BRING OUT HER PARTICULAR TYPE AND CREATE AN IMPRESSION OF DAINTINESS AND SIMPLICITY.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

The Rough Riders

The Tinker Man in Bing-Bang Land made Nick a soldier hat out of a newspaper and carved him a wooden sword. Then he painted a silver star on his shoulder.

"Now you are General Nick," he said.

And as Nancy was going to help the Bing-Bang army by driving a Red Cross ambulance, the Tinker Man gave her a belt with a strap that went over her shoulder.

Off went the Twins then to find the wooden soldier army again.

They found them where they had left them standing in a stiff straight line and staring ahead at nothing, their colonels and majors and captains all in their proper places.

Nancy scrambled up on the ambulance seat at once and started the engine. Then she fixed the handles and let out the clutch just like a real grown up person. The car started to move slowly.

Nick took his place at once at the head of the army, his sword pressed against his shoulder.

"Ready! March!" he commanded. And away they all went. Left right, left right, left right, left right, left right, left right, left right, left right. Their wooden legs thumped the ground at each step. At last they came to a bridge and Nick led them right over.

"Halt!" he commanded suddenly. The wooden soldiers stopped so quickly they nearly fell over backward.

Then Nick took his spy glass out of his pocket and looked for the enemy.

But he hadn't long to wait, for just then some tin rough riders in brown suits and bug hats came galloping over the hill on their tin horses

Bang, bang, bang! went their guns. But when they saw the water guns of the wooden soldiers, they fled in dismay.

They dared not run the risk of getting rusty.

Can Fresh Pineapples
Now!

This is the time to can pineapples at home. They are cheap now during the height of the season. The season is short, so don't delay.

Beautiful, big, sweet, golden-brown pineapples are arriving every day by fast steamers from Cuba. For this is pineapple time in the West Indies. The finest pineapples grown come from Cuba where soil fertility and rainfall unite in growing these delicious fruits to rare perfection.

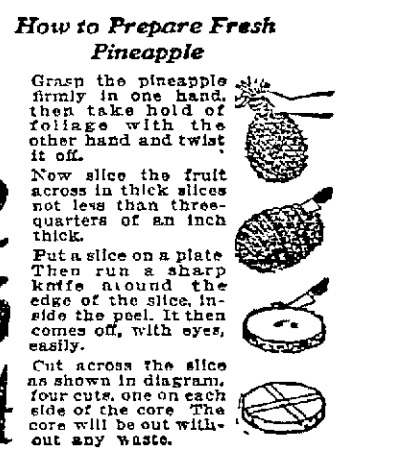

Canning pineapples is simple. Prepare them as shown here, the way Cuban housewives do it.

Run the cores and peels through the chopper to extract all the juice. Strain and add this to the syrup the fruit cooks in.

Place the cut up fruit in a preserving kettle and cover with water, sweetened with cane sugar, to which you have added the fruit juice.

Cook slowly until moderately soft. Fill jars with the cooked fruit, pour enough syrup from the cooking to cover, then seal tightly while still hot.

Pineapple, canned this way, is superior to the commercial canned fruit. It has more of the taste of fresh fruit.

AN INTIMATE STORY OF INNERMOST
EMOTIONS REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS

COPYRIGHT 1923 - NEA SERVICE, INC.

LETTER FROM JOHN PRESCOTT NEWLY WED, TO HIS FRIEND, SYDNEY CARTON

DEAR SID:

I broke off suddenly in my letter to you the other day for Leslie has the most absurd ideas about one's private correspondence. She wants to read all mine and tenders hers to me to read.

God knows, Syd, I do not want to read her letters full of trivial commonplace and questions about people for whom I care nothing, and certainly I would not have her read my letters to you or the world. It would seem like giving up my entire liberty.

I wanted to tell you about my interview with Leslie's father. It was a "humdinger."

He had me on the carpet that morning after I returned from that business ("trip for about an hour and he had me going all right. I wasn't sure there was going to be a wedding when I made a clean breast of the affair with Pauline.

At that, Leslie's father is a good sport. In the first place he told me that he suspected from the first that my firm had not sent for me and in the second place he said he thought I had balled up matters greatly. That anyone of sense would have known I was lying and that you were aiding me. He said that only a loving woman who wanted to believe would have been fooled by either you or me.

He said that was why he was ready to forgive me as it showed him I was not very proficient in the matter of deceiving.

Syd I told him the whole story, and he said, as you have, that I had made a consummate fool of myself. He said it more forcibly too. However, he continued that probably ninety nine men out of a hundred do the same thing every day of their lives.

I asked him if he thought I had better tell Leslie and he answered no. If he didn't think she would understand.

I gathered from what he said, although I made no mention of this, that he thought what a woman didn't know wouldn't hurt her. I pigeon-holed that opinion for future use.

He assured me, however, that he would expect me to be absolutely devoted and true to his daughter after marriage, and he affirmed somewhat profanely that he didn't care a damn for me or my feelings in the matter, but he would not have his daughter made unhappy.

"Prescott," he said, "I have never made Leslie's mother suffer one pang of unhappiness on my account and I do not intend that she shall sorrow because some scoundrel like your self has brought grief to one of her daughters."

I felt pretty low down, Syd. The old man is white and, if for no other reason than because I want his respect, I am going to play the game straight from now on. JACK.

HAPPIER, HEALTHIER WOMEN

by thousands are known to exist in this country because they have been relieved from pain and suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Science in surgery and electricity have advanced greatly during the past fifty years, but treatment of disease by old fashioned root and herb medicines have never been improved upon. The leader of them all is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which after fifty years of service is today recognized as the standard remedy for female ailments and sold everywhere for that purpose. Replies to a questionnaire recently sent out to 50,000 women by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., proved that it benefits 98 out of every 100 women who try it. Isn't this a marvelous record for any medicine to hold?

My Baby Skin

After 40 years in the limelight, I look like a girl of 19. Thousands of young girls envy my complexion.

This is largely due to a super-clay, perfected by 20 years of scientific study. It is white, clean, dainty, and amazingly efficient. Many women seem to drop ten years with one application. Now your toilet counter has it—Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay. Price 50c and $1. I urge you to learn what it does.

Graves Fund Is $22 Over Goal Point

Appleton has lived up to its reputation as a city loyal to good causes and patriotic ideals. Not only did its people contribute $200 requested by the Post-Crescent for the American legion's perpetual graves endowment fund, but gave $22 more than requested. Gifts up to noon Wednesday totaled $222.

This concludes the campaign and the money will be turned over in equal amounts to the Wisconsin department of the American legion for overseas use and to Oney Johnston post for use in improving its local burial plot. The Post-Crescent, undertook this task believing it was fitting for the people to assure decoration of soldier graves on Memorial day each year through the businesslike plan of the national department of the American legion. The paper extends its thanks to all who contributed, and expresses the gratitude of the local veterans of the World war as well.

FOR THE FARMER

KEEP PEN OF OLD HENS FOR NEXT YEAR

Incubators Should Be Cleaned
And Disinfected Before
Stored Away

Incubators should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected at the close of the hatching season and before they are put away, a writer in "Farm Life" advises. They should also be given a good sun bath.

"It is always best to keep over at least one pen of good pullets, here for next year's breeding," Farm Life says. "No matter how many good pullets you expect to raise this year, hens are often more reliable in this particular than pullets.

"A few chickens well cared for is better than a large flock made to care for themselves.

"When eggs have thin shells, are irregular in shape, or are unusually large, these are sure signs that the hens are too fat and their rations should be reduced especially the whole corn.

"Eggs for hatching should be kept at a temperature of from forty to sixty degrees. It is said that if they are placed with small end down on a layer of grain they will keep longer, as they are not subject to vibration. Thus stored, they may remain fifteen to twenty days before being set for hatching.

"A good 'first feed' for baby chicks is composed of hard-boiled eggs, bread crumbs, etc., preferably soaked in sweet milk and well drained by pressing in the hand. A little later, add to the meal, oat meal, bran, middlings, corn meal of cooked potatoes. When the chicks are about two or three weeks old, a few crushed kernels of wheat or corn may be added to the ration each day. Always feed moderately—only as much as they will clean up."—Farm Life.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

TOO MANY CARS FOR ENJOYABLE DRIVING

Not Enough Roads To Take Care Of All Automobiles
In America

With more automobiles being bought than ever in the history of the industry, touring this summer will lose its appeal to many a motorist.

Not that the roads are bad but that they are few.

There are some 300,000 miles of surfaced roads in the country, and the federal government is planning the construction of some 150,000 miles more in the next 15 or 20 years in connection with the state building programs.

But production of automobiles is going so fast, road building could never hope to catch up with it. For example, last March was the greatest auto production month in the history of the industry. More than 350,000 vehicles were put out that month. But April came along with even a bigger figure—364,000—66 per cent greater than that of April, 1922.

And there seems to be no let-up in the demand for more!

In spite of the progress in highway construction everywhere, it does not come near satisfying the demand for more road room coming from the unusually increased number of automobile owners. The present program calls for only about 10 per cent increase in road construction annually. Yet the number of automobiles in the country seems to be increasing at the rate of about 25 per cent annually.

The result already is noticed. Crowding on the highways. No joy for the driver, for he must keep his eyes front and his nerves tense. It's like going to a popular bathing resort on a hot day and trying to enjoy yourself.

What will come of this is hard to tell, unless there is a prospect of introducing the next form of travel—by

SPIKE STORY OF TOO MANY TIRES

That current rumors of overproduction which will necessitate complete shutdown of many of the larger tire factories by July 1 are utterly false is shown by interviews secured by the trade paper "Tires" with some of the most prominent men in the industry.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that when the demand lessens in the next two months, production schedules will be cut from 10 to 25 per cent, which is the customary practice when seasonal slowdowns occur. This lessening of demand will not be caused by any decrease in consumer buying, but will be caused by the dropping off of original equipment business on the part of automobile manufacturers. Only these tire manufacturers who furnish original equipment will be affected. The smaller companies that do business only through dealers, will not be obliged to cut production schedules.

Manufacturers have about two months' supply of finished product on hand while a survey of 27,000 dealers in the United States, made by one of the larger Akron tire companies, shows that dealers are carrying but 50-day stocks.

A GREAT INDUSTRY

Nearly one-fourth of the aluminum produced in the United States goes into automobiles.

Automobile industry affects some 2,500,000 workers, more or less directly.

Dayton chemists are said to have discovered a compound which will increase gasoline mileage 100 per cent. Motor bus with a glass inclosed top was shown recently in New York.

air—in the near future. Civilization is coming to this—when people will rise directly up from the earth and fly about over the heads of pedestrians.

The sooner this is accomplished, the better for all—motorists and pedestrians.

FARM NEEDS WIN OVER TIME CLOCK

Washington—Dirt farmer methods may be effective in some parts of the department of agriculture—

But science has triumphed over the time clock.

Secretary Wallace has modified his order to make all employees of the department punch the time clock. The scientists have won exemption.

Announcement of the clock method didn't get an enthusiastic shout from the internationally prominent men whose scientific work has saved millions to farmers every year and reduced life loss all over the world. They declared a region of getting to work at 9, taking half an hour off for lunch and working again until 4:30 impaired their work.

The scientists argued that they had become accustomed to their own methods of research and study. They cited that much of their most valuable work was done late at night. And furthermore, they let it be known that the scientific mind depends upon the mood, not the number of working hours, for its effectiveness.

WALLACE STRICT

Wallace declined to give in at first. He insisted all bureau chiefs should be at their desks promptly at 9, as he always is. But he is now mitigating the severity of the ruling for the scientific men.

Which means that the following experts are happy working according to their usual schedules:

Dr. Leonard O. Wovard, entomologist, honorary member of many foreign scientific societies, president, Association of Economic Entomologists, etc. He has saved farmers millions by discoveries of crop-raiding insects, and has contributed to health conditions by fighting house flies and mosquitoes.

Dr. Martinus Domest, who discovered serum and treatment for hog cholera.

Dr. Maurice C. Hall, who found a cure for hookworm.

J. F. Rock, plant explorer, first white man to see the Chaulmoogra tree, when he risked his life penetrating the jungles of Siam and Burma. Its oil is the only known cure for leprosy.

MANY ON LIST

Prof. C. F. Marvin, weather bureau chief, whose inventions have given the bureau accuracy greater than that of any other country.

A. D. Shamel, who showed fruit growers how to bud selection greatly increases the fruit crop.

Department officials said it would be impossible to estimate the value of the services of these and many other department workers who are receiving salaries lower than under-scientists in commercial concerns.

"These men have done more than enough to make up for missing the time clock every day in the year as long as they live," one official said.

CHILE TO BE DRY SOON, SAYS METHODIST BISHOP

By Associated Press
Chicago—As far as the cause being supported by powerful political factors is concerned, Chile is on the verge of prohibition, according to Bishop William F. Oldham, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church at Buenos Aires who recently arrived at Chicago.

"With the President of Chile an ardent prohibitionist and with the power of the Labor party behind the movement, the sentiment in favor of prohibition has grown by leaps and bounds," said Bishop Oldham. "The only obstacle now is the economic one of the disposition of their vast vineyards. Delegations from Chile have gone in the past year to California and Italy to study the possibilities of saving the value of the vineyards on the advent of prohibition. With the solution of this problem I believe that prohibition will be an easy matter in Chile.
